FATHERS AND SONS BANQUET

One Hundred and Fifty Gathered at Y. M. C. A. for Third Annual Event-Highly Interesting Address by H. W. Gibson, State Secretary Boys' Work in Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

ALLYN L BROWN

One hundred and sixty men and boys gathered at the Y. M. C. A. on Wedesday evening for the third annual Father and Son banquet and the event proved even a bigger success than was anticipated by those in charge, A feature of the evening was the highly interesting address on The Boy and His Father, delivered by H. W. Gibson, State Boys' Work Secretary of Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

The banquet was held in the association auditorium and the menu was served at 6.30 o'clock. The fathers and sons, some fathers by proxy, gathered in the lobby and at the appointed time walked two and two to the banquet hall where several long ta-bles had been arranged. Grace was said by Rev. Frederick W. Coleman. paster of Trinity Methodist Episconal church and then the folowing menu was served:

Clam Broth Roast Ham String Beans Escalloped Oysters Rolls Pineapple Salad Ice Cream Coffee

The speakers' table occupied a position on the stage and among those who sat at this table were Allyn L. Brown, toastmaster, James L. Case, president of the Y. M. C. A. James C. Marpherson, one of the vice presidents of the association, R. W. Gibson, the speaker of the evening and Jonathan Johnson of the Boyel capital. the speaker of the evening and Jona-than Johnson, of the Boys' cabinet.

Mr. Brown presided as togstmaster in a very capable and efficient man-ner. The address of welcome was de-livered by President Case. Mr. Case said it was a delightful privilege to extend a welcome to the fathers and sons at their third annual banquet and he spoke of the comradeship between the fathers and sons present. Mr. the fathers and sons present. Mr. Case then accorded a hearty welcome to Mr. Gibson who is no stranger to Norwich as he has been here several times.

A greeting, "Son to Fathers" was M. C. A. Boys' cabinet. Representing the Boys' cabinet and in behalf of the Y. M. C. A. I extend a greeting to the Y. M. C. A. I extend a greeting to the fathers present tonight, said Mr. Johnson. Fathers get in closer touch with their boys by coming here and by taking an interest in what the Y. M. C. A. is trying to accomplish, he continued. In closing he urged the fathers to adopt the slogan, "Watch your step," and said it might be well to make it read, "Watch that boy's step."

Step."

The response, Father to Sons, was made by Mr. Macpherson, I am sure there is no father present but has welther to come here. comed the opportunity to come here tonight for the third time, said Mr. Macpherson. It seems to me he con-tinued, that there is an evolution of the relationship between father and son and son and father, and it is just such organizations as the Y. M. C. A. that this evolution is more greater. Mr Macpherson said that between the ages of one and twelve years mothers exert the most influence over a boys life but that after reaching the age of 12 years the boy comes to realize the need of more self-reliance. That is the time the father should strive to be his guiding star.

e his guiding star. At this point Toastmaster Brown an-

be his guiding star.

At this point Toastmaster Brown announced a treat not on the programme and that was a few words from Boys' Secretary J. Harold Elly, the man who madd the banquet possible and whom the toastmaster referred to as the "most popular man present."

Mr. Gibson was then introduced by the toastmaster as the speaker of the evening. His address was intensely interesting and he captured the attention of every man and boy present from the beginning.

The real boy, the healthy boy, said Mr. Gibson, is made up of fifty per cent, noise and fifty per cent, dirt. If he is not noisy and dirty then there is something wrong with him. It's the noise that gets on father's nerves, not the dirt. In high school you get an example of organized noise—the school yell. What would the Harvard-Yale game be without noise The success of the game depends on roise.

There are a whole lot of men who will go to a baseball game on a Saturday afternoon and make ten times as much noise as their small sons ever thought of making and them came home and expect the boys to be quiet. If the boy is unusually quiet, mother gets worried and says, What's the making a life, said Mr. Gibson, and then will take a little more time in making a life, said Mr. Gibson, and the will take a little more time in making a life, said Mr. Gibson, and the on mach time in making a living then the home problem will be nearer a solution.

then the home problem will be nearer a solution.

It's the dirt that worries mother, he continued. I'll venture to say that every knickerbocker boy here was looked over by his mother before he came. Boys and dirt have an affinity for one another.

There is something a boy will never be guilty of and that's wearing out door mais. Suppose the carpet does show stins of wearing out, suppose they do wear'out, you can buy a new carpet but you can't buy a new boy. The boy ought to have a room of his dwn and he ought to be allowed to take into that room all his treasures and you know how numerous they are buttons, bugs, pennants, etc.

There comes a time in the boy's life when you don't have to worry about when you don't have to worry about the dirt. It happens on a Saturday might; Sunday morning he appears in his first pair of trousers. The prob-lem now its to keep him away from the mirror. Now is the time for the father to step in and form a partner-ship with the boy.

If the fathers watch their steps they won't have to watch the boy's step, he said in conclusion. Do you know that we could wipe out cigarette smoking in three menths? Not by enacting a law. When you first discover that pe-culiar odor instead of thrushing the boy, say, Come here. And you and the boy so into shother room and you hold out your hand and greet him with, What do you say if we quit together?

And you and the boy so, incread of thrushing the boy, say, Come here. And you and the boy so, into snother recem and you hold out your hand and greet him with. What do you say if we quit together? It will cost father a lot but it will save the boy.

A thunderous burnt of applause was showered on Mr. Gibson as he took his seat.

The banquet came to a close with the singing of, A Hymn to Father and prayer was offered by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church.
